DEERE RUN was the name selected for the Bed & Breakfast Home for two reasons: not only are there many white-tailed deer that roam the farmland around the home, but John Deere equipment is used mostly in working the land.

DEERE RUN is located north of Terre Haute on U.S. 41. The farm lies between the highway and the banks of the Wabash River, which serves as its western boundary. The old Wabash-Erie Canal bed and its tow path can still be found along the bottom of the bluff, with the home situated at the top. In the springtime the wild blooming trees of plum, cherry, redbud and dogwood create a beautiful view, and in the fall the coloring of the leaves of the maple, oak, sycamore and sassafras are equally breathtaking.

Staying at DEERE RUN can be a unique modern farm experience with a continental breakfast of home-products. A sample menu might be: choice of juices, variety of cereals with fruit in season or frozen home-grown, a quick bread with jellies or jams, and a favorite beverage.

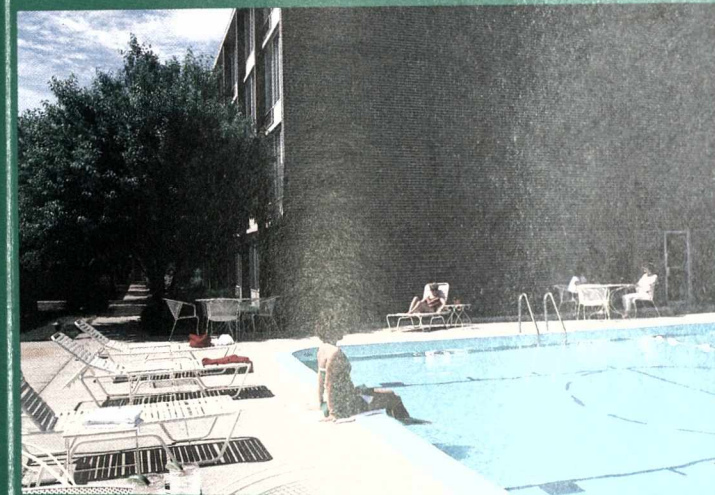

The home was built by the couple in 1950 from house plans they had selected and re-designed. In 1964, an addition was made to accommodate the growing family of two sons and a daughter. At present, the three-bedroom, two-bath spacious home is furnished in comfortable family-oriented style, with many items collected during travels in the USA, Mexico and Canada, as well as many other countries around the world, displayed on shelves, walls and mantel. One interesting wall-hanging is an interpretation of Dorothea's paternal family's German coat-of-arms.

Bob is a full-time farmer, operating with 1,500 acres of corn and soybeans in two adjoining counties of Indiana and Illinois, and also in cooperation with other family members. He walks 5 to 6 miles almost every day at the local mall since having had heart bypass surgery in 1983. Bob enjoys talking with people of other countries and traveling as a way of understanding about those other cultures. The family belongs to the People-to-People International organization.

Dorothea finished her Vocational Home Economic Education Degree in 1963, completed a masters, a sixth year, had an assistantship assignment for three years at Indiana State, and then taught Home Economics in the Vigo County School Corporation for 20 years before retiring in 1986. DEERE RUN Bed & Breakfast Home is just one of her interests now. Others are: developing new flower and garden areas around the house, slowly doing some re-decorating, and having time for her hobbies of travel, clothing construction and reading. She also is trying to keep up with her grandson, Caleb, as they learn Spanish and how to operate a new personal computer which will be used for the farm business and for learning skills for Caleb.

TERRE HAUTE, INDIANA

Larry Bird chose Terre Haute for his Boston Connection Hotel because of his playing days at nearby Indiana State University and the support he received from Terre Haute and the surrounding communities. Larry led the ISU Fighting Sycamores to the national championship game of the NCAA in 1979, and then went on to basketball immortality with the Boston Celtics.

His hotel is the closest quality lodging establishment to the downtown business district, to most major industries and to Indiana State University, Saint Mary-of-the-Woods College and Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology. Interstate 70, Honey Creek Mall and Ivy Tech are only minutes away via U.S. 41... and French Lick is only down the road a piece.

When you're planning to come to Terre Haute, make Larry Bird's Boston Connection your overnight address. For Reservations: 1-800-262-0033

❧ Named for the great sycamore tree that once provided shade for this 1860's farm house and barn, the Sycamore Farm Bed and Breakfast creates an atmosphere of a time and place long ago. Part of its charm is its past history and present hospitality.

For five generations the descendants of Warren Soules owned and worked the land, and this original farm setting now is nestled among the large old trees on the three remaining acres of what was once a mile square of farmland.

The simple, work oriented farm house has been restored since the new owners, Arley and Carolyn Andrews, purchased it in 1994. The antique filled rooms are beautifully decorated and offer king, queen and double beds, private and semi private baths, a parlor and private or common porches for relaxation.

You are always welcome at Sycamore Farm, where a full country breakfast is served, and it's open all year.

Overnight guests may choose to linger a while and join others for lunch in the two Tea Rooms where lunch is served Monday thru Saturday.

❧ The Master's Room is upstairs and has a private porch that overlooks the quaint setting and has a king size bed and private bath. Its furnishings represent days of long ago when the wrought iron headboard once arched over the entrance to an English garden.

The Hideaway is also upstairs and offers a cozy retreat from a busy day. Its 1860 furnishings are complete with a day bed for sitting and relaxing. It has a double bed, private bath and access to a side porch surrounded by shade trees.

The Sunrise Room welcomes the rays of the morning sun and remains light and cheery all day with three windows and the yellow decor. It has a queen size bed and a semi-private bath and is located at the top of the main entry staircase. The beautiful antique furniture adds its charm to the room.

The Sunset Suite, located at the top of the main entry staircase on the west side of the house overlooks the vintage trees and the nearby porch invites you to sit and relax awhile. Richly decorated, this room features a unique 1860's hand carved oak Victorian bed and a semi-private bath.

The Bouquet Room is surrounded with 1860 furnishings including a one-of-a-kind Victorian bed made of hand carved walnut and burl. It is located on the main floor adjacent to the parlor and glassed-in side porch. It has a private bath and a private entrance and is also wheelchair accessible.
